

Look around you
(words and music Lee Maddeford)

Falling from security falling from the light
Falling from your mothers arms into the black of night
Arms that hold you in the hours and listen to the lies
Empty hands carress the loneliness that fills your eyes

All of the dreams
Tear at the seams

False security beneath a hurt that lies inside
Tumbles down beyond the years upon the rising tide
Arms that hold me in the hours and look into my eyes
Hands carress the emptiness i feel behind the lies

All of the dreams
Tear at the seams

Look around you what surrounds you is all that you can feel
I have known you and in the years that follow i will calm the wounds that heal
Look around you what astounds you is all that you could be
I have seen you, i have seen you coming from the light beyond the sea
For tonight, i will hold you in my arms again
And watch the moonlight fall upon your brow
