

Braided flower

(words and music Lee Maddeford)

I'll sigh so softly in your ear
I'll hold your hair and wash your tears away
A braided flower i will give
To prove my love i'd wander into
Darkest night where fantoms roam
And if fear grips my heart i'll think of home
I'll think of you adi

A thousand pockets lined with gold
All filled with courage and poems of old for you
And warm watered oceans and black seas that danse
And large-breasted women in highheels that pranse
Around the sun till lights no more
And if fear grips my heart off distant shores
I'll think of you adi
