

You're still a man
(words and music Lee Maddeford)

A broken arm a broken eye
The pale moon waves good-bye
The men of ages come and go a new born mother cries
We give our hearts we give our minds each each solitary soul
To help this world to move along
To help this world to grow

And the men who are brave in the face of adversity
are the men who save humanity

a winters night a winter dream the pale moon lends her hand she's a alone within her home but she'll comfort those she can we drink our wine we cry our tears each solitary soul
To help this world to move along
To help this world to grow

And the men who are brave in the face of adversity
are the men who save humanity

and you you're a man
you're still a man